Students celebrate 15 years of JGU

JGU student emerges victorious in major eventing competition

JGU student Arjan Singh Nagra, studying 2nd year BCom LLB, had participated in the Concours Complet International 1* eventing competition held in Jaipur from the 26th to 29th of August and emerged victorious.

There was huge competition with 46 starters from all over India including the 61st cavalry, RVC Meerut, ASC Bangalore, MPSEA Bhopal, The Presidents bodyguard and many more established equestrian academies.

“I am extremely grateful and thankful for the universities support in my equestrian endeavours,” says Arjan.

JOINING HANDS TO MAKE JGU A RAGGING FREE CAMPUS

The Office of Student Affairs actively engaged in promoting a safe and respectful campus environment. Several initiatives were undertaken to raise awareness about anti-ragging, involving educational sessions, creative competitions, and collaborative events.

As part of the Buddy Project, JGU's Freshers Orientation Program, focused sessions on anti-ragging were conducted. The sessions effectively informed students about the serious implications of ragging and encouraged them to seek help from designated authorities if required.

A campus-wide poster campaign was launched to reinforce the anti-ragging message. Various student councils and JGU societies displayed digital posters during the National Anti-Ragging Week, including before, during, and after movie screenings. These posters contained key messages and resources related to anti-ragging. The Jindal Debate Society, in collaboration with the Office of Student Affairs, hosted a successful Anti-Ragging Debate Competition too. A poster-making competition was also organized specifically for first-year students on the same topic.

Beyond Boundaries highlights the diversity of LGBTQIA+ community

Beyond Boundaries 2.0 is a flagship event hosted by Psychological Society Initiative (PSI) organised from 13th to 15th September, 2024.

"We celebrate the rich diversity of the LGBTQIA+ community and explore the underpinnings of self-discovery, acceptance, and resilience," says the President of PSI. In order to fully celebrate the community members and allies, PSI organised a two-day event including a panel discussion as well as interesting and unique activities.

On Day 1, panel discussion by Ankita Agarwal (from Karma Care), Kabir Maan (from Narariya) and Ayaan Krishan Varma focused on theb LGBTQIA+ community.

On Day 2, around 15 small businesses from JGU put up stalls along with many activities hosted by PSI including tote bag painting, make your own flags, pick up your favourite tulips, this one's for you, pin your pride, face painting and guess who!

Poetry and songs were also a part of the open mic celebration

"The event turned out to be an amazing success filled with joy, conversations and positivity, with participation of over 1,000 students across JGU," says the president of PSI. We're already looking forward to beyond boundaries 3.0!

Deb Soc earns accolades all for exemplary debates

JGU Debate Society students has demonstrated some exemplary performances in debate competitions held across the country.

Firstly, they had Andrea Fernandes (23 JGLS) breaking as an adjudicator in Chitkara University's Muntazar APD, and then judging the Open Pre-Quarterfinals!

They then had Chinmay Hegde (23 JGLS) and Aniq Jiwani (23 JGLS) breaking open in the Shri-Ram Pre ABP, held by SRCC. They then went on to reach the open Semi Finals.

They also had all JGU speakers breaking open in the hugely prestigious NALSAR IV held in Hyderabad. The team consisting of Marushka Kenia (20 JGLS), and Kushagra Aditya (23 JGLS) emerged as Open Semi Finalists. The team consisting of Chinmay Hegde (23 JGLS), and Aniq Jiwani (23 JGLS) went on to reach the Open Grand Finals.

A Hundred Charmers:
Spectacular display

JGU witnessed one of the most astonishing musical performances last month, conducted by Roysten Abel with over a 100 snake charmers for an orchestra. Organised by SLCE, Mr Roysten has been actively propagating folk arts and music through his theatrical productions for years.

First conceived to create awareness about the disappearing snake charmer community, 'A Hundred Charmers' is an attempt by Roysten to foreground one of the oldest traditional performance traditions of India to a wider audience. Been is essentially a solo instrument and it is for the first time that an experiment like this has been attempted.

Traditional rhythms and melodies have been

Onam 2024 celebrations show the vibrancy of JGU

Onam was celebrated at JGU with vibrant cultural activities, bringing together students, faculty, and staff to enjoy the spirit of the festival.

Like previous years, this year too the festival of Onam was embraced by the student community with much love. Pookkalam, an important part of Onam celebrations, was designed by students just outside the Admissions Office.

A traditional Onam Sadhya, the grand feast served on banana leaves, was also a part of the celebrations. The menu included a variety of vegetarian dishes such as avial, sambar, rasam, thoran, payasam, and more. Students collaborated with local caterers in preparing and serving the meal.

Promoting cultural traditions, Vadamvali (tug-of-war) was another highlight of the celebrations. This year, students also invited a specialised drummers community to join the festivities and add colours to the cultural performances by students.

IT'S PICTURES THAT SPEAK AT APERTURE PHOTO EXHIBITION

Aperture, the Photography and Creative Culture Society had the opportunity to hold their fifth edition of the bi-annual photo exhibition for the Fall semester, namely "Elysium".

Myriad of photographs catering to different themes from automotive, horror, landscape wildlife and many more were clicked, selected and displayed brought by Apertures very own members.

The night was brought to a close by classical musical dance performance by Thadeem, the classical dance and music society of JGU.

JGBS showcases the diversity among student body

Abhivyakt: The JGBS Fiesta was a vibrant club fair that brought together diverse clubs at JGBS.

From HR and Leadership to Finance, Entrepreneurship, ZAMAC, and Sports — each of them came together to introduce themselves to the freshers through engaging activities and spontaneous performances.

The Kala Club added a creative touch with dance, singing, a powerful Nukkad Natak on online scams, and a
