A step towards inclusive journalism

On the occasion of the International Day of Persons with Disabilities, a groundbreaking Disability Media Toolkit was launched at India Gate, symbolizing a significant step towards fostering inclusive and sensitive media representation of persons with disabilities (PwDs).

This initiative was the result of months of dedicated effort by five final-year students of JSJC under the mentorship of Professor and Dean Kishalay Bhattacharjee, in collaboration with the National Centre for Promotion of Employment for Disabled People (NCPEDP). Journalism students Moksh Dhand, Muskan Kaur, Sheikha Mariyam Sam, Shreya Saksena and Uddantika Kashyap undertook this project, which involved months of rigorous research, surveys, and interviews with PwDs. The result was the culmination of all this research into a toolkit, designed to assist journalists in portraying disability narratives with respect and authenticity.

YOUNG MINDS CHANGEMAKERS SUMMIT 2024: YOUTH PAVING THE WAY FORWARD

The YOUNG MINDS Changemakers Summit 2024 held at the O.P. Jindal Global University focused on a solution-centric approach, involving young changemakers from across India and from various parts of the world in conversations around climate action, youth empowerment, gender and social equity and poverty alleviation.

"The young changemakers not only showcased the solutions they have been working on with in their communities but also indulged in cross-sectoral interaction to work on other possible solutions. The discussions will lead up to the 'Solutions from the Youth Perspective Report'," says Manan Singh, founder of YOUNG MINDS.

"We also had delegates from different parts of India, Nepal, Bangladesh, USA and online delegates from parts of Africa," adds the founder.

They young changemakers also got an opportunity to attend workshops and learn how to build communication strategies, self-care and evaluation methods. The summit ensured sustainability with eco-friendly stationery and a plantation drive.

Christmas celebration in JGU: A season of joy and togetherness

Christmas transcends boundaries, and brings people together in a spirit of joy, giving, and love. The staff members of JGU also came together and celebrated the festival with a Christmas tree and gifts.

"At its heart, Christmas is about togetherness, compassion, and gratitude. It is a time to reconnect with loved ones, share gifts, and extend kindness to those in need," says a staff member.

"Christmas is about togetherness, compassion, and gratitude. We all reconnected with each other and had a great time"

Whether through acts of charity, sharing meals, or simply spending time with family and friends, Christmas is a reminder to cherish the bonds that unite us.

Music Workshop conducted for staff members

JGU staff members joined in huge numbers to learn playing musical instruments. Organised by the Learning and Development team at JGU, the music workshop was organised at RASA Music Room for two weeks.
