A New Future for Economics: Theory & Practice

by

Dr. Naresh Singh

Senior Vice President, Global Partnerships; Global Development Solutions Canada.

Dr. Naresh Singh has had more than 3 decades of international development experience and has worked in more than 50 developing countries and several OECD countries. He has a PhD in Environmental Sciences and his foray into economics started with his paper on Caribbean Ecology and Economics based on entropy and economic theory 30 years ago. His search for a theory of sustainable development then led him beyond economics to complexity theory. He has collaborated with leaders in the field from Harvard and Santa Fe Institute including Stuart Kaufman with whom he retains an ongoing friendship. He has served in senior positions in UNDP New York, the Canadian International Development Agency and the International Institute for Sustainable Development. He has been a visiting academic at several universities around the world and is widely published. More details of his work are available at www.sustainable-livelihoods.com
