by

Ms. Nidhi Maini

Ph.D. Candidate

Department of East Asian Studies, University of Delhi

About the Speaker:

Nidhi Maini, currently a PhD candidate at Department of East Asian Studies, University of Delhi is researching on Women Magazines and Consumption patterns in interwar Japan. She is a certified TESOL trainer and has completed Japanese Language Teacher Training Course conducted by Ministry of External Affairs of India and the Embassy of Japan. She is also a recipient of Delhi University Gold Medal, Mitsubishi International Scholarship, JENESYS and TEEP Scholarship for research in Taiwan.

Abstract of the talk:

This lecture will focus on Japanese language education and its benefits. While introducing the unique characteristics of Japanese language, it will also give insights into Japanese culture. Rapidly advancing India-Japan relations promise huge potential for youth with Japanese language proficiency. An integrated approach towards learning Japanese language, culture and work ethics paves way for deeper people-to-people exchange and cultural immersion.
